FILING OF OBJECTIONS!

Garman and Donahue Are After Mr. Coray's Scalp.

QUESTION OF HIS NOMINATION

The Ex-Chairman of the Democratic State Committee Says It is in Violation of the Action Taken by the Party in Convention.

DONAHUE BELIEVES IT IS ILLEGAL

HARRISBURG, Oct. 16.—John M. Garman, of Nanticoke, former democratic state chairman, and Patrick Donahue, of Philadelphia, a deposed member of the Democratic State committee, filed two sets of objections in the Dauphin county court last evening to the placing of the name of Representative Elisha A. Coray, Jr., on the Democratic State ticket for State Treasurer.

Mr. Coray was nominated by the Union party at a convention held in Philadelphia and when Andrew J. Palm, the regular Democratic nominee, withdrew the Democratic State committee met here last Friday and placed Mr. Coray's name on the ticket.

The objections of Mr. Garman are that the State committee had no legal right to nominate Coray, who is a Republican, because the last Democratic State convention adopted a motion that the vacancies on the State ticket should only be filled by Democrats. Garman alleges also that the nomination of Coray is illegal inasmuch as the meeting of the State committee was not legal, not having been called in the regular way.

Mr. Donahue objects on the ground that he and his deposed colleagues had no notice of the meeting of the State committee, which illegally nominated Mr. Coray; that the meeting was illegal and not convened according to party rules; that at the committee meeting six persons not members, meaning ex Governor Pattison and others who took the places of the deposed committeemen, were present and voted for Coray illegally, and the substitution of Coray was illegal and contrary to the rules of the Democratic party.

Notice of the objections was also filed at the State Department. The objectors will go into court today and ask that a day be fixed for argument. Grant Weidman, of Lebanon, and M. E. Olmsted, of Harrisburg, will represent the objectors and J. A. Stranahan and Robert Snodgrass will represent the Democratic State committee and Mr. Coray.

Chairman Creasy, of the Democratic State committee, last night announced the appointment of Mr. Palm, Geo. O. Dixon, of Elk; John Fisher, of Shamokin; Chas. E. Ingersoll, of Philadelphia, and Frank J. Fitzsimmons, of Scranton, a committee to notify Mr. Coray of his nomination. The committee will meet in Philadelphia next Monday at Democratic headquarters to prepare a formal letter of notification, which will be forwarded to Mr. Coray at his home.

Petrikin Hall.

The corner stone of Petrikin Hall will be laid this month with appropriate ceremonies. The box to be enclosed will contain, with other valuable and interesting information, the names of all the donors towards it with the amounts they contributed, so hurry up, friends, that you grandchildren and "great-grandchildren" may find your names among those who helped to carry out the wishes of Marian Petrikin.

This Hall is intended to be a fitting tribute to her life work, in fact a continuation of it, as its object will be to educate and cultivate the higher and better nature of the community.

It is not intended it shall be a charity by any means, if you will only give more liberally towards its erection now. The rentals of its rooms and flats will make it self sustaining, if too heavy a mortgage is made small by your kind help in the start. Bellefonte, always noted for its liberality, need only be reminded that the W. C. T. U. is a Woman's organization and they appeal to her citizens to help them to carry out the work which was left for them to do by the one woman (and only one we believe) who left her all for the good of you and your children. Contributions can be left at any of the Banks, or to those who have the matter in charge.

A STEP FORWARD.

Sportsman's League Establish a Pond for the Propagation of Young Fish.

The Centre County Sportman's League have taken a step recently the wisdom of which is being commended by all thoughtful people. It is nothing else than the establishing of a fish pond at this place for the propagation of young trout. Heretofore the trout fry received from the state and government hatcheries were placed directly in the streams hereabout and the result was that the big fish already in the streams ate the little ones up.

The Sportsman's League think they have solved this difficulty. They have taken the old canal along the Central Railroad track from R. B. Taylor's ice house to the foot bridge that crosses over from the Central track to the Milesburg pike and converted it into a fish pond. All the water-cress, rubbish, etc., have been cleaned out and two dams have been built therein. In the first dam the trout fry will be kept and in the second the larger trout will be placed. All trout received from the state and goverment hatcheries will be placed there and kept a year after which they will be dipped out and placed in the different streams hereabout. This is allowed by law.

The large spring near Taylor's ice house supplies all the water necessary and makes the pond an ideal one for the object intended.

This is the first step of this kind ever taken and it is believed it will be followed with advantage by others in different parts of the state who are interested in the propagation of fish.

BOLD BAD BRUIN.

Creates Excitement by Appearing on Campus at State College.

Quite an excitement was created within the quiet precincts of the Borough of State College Monday noon by the appearance of a monstrous black bear on the College campus within sight of the main building. It was just at the dinner hour and students and professors were hurrying from study rooms to the numerous cottages and club houses in that vicinity, and the consternation Mr. Bruin created can be imagined.

How he got so far away from his native haunts and within sight of the College building without being discovered is a wonder, but there he was, a real flesh and blood bear, and a big one, too.

As soon as they recovered from their surprise a possee of State College Nimrods, including Dr. Christ, James H. Holmes, Irvin Holmes and Wm. Foster, started for Mr. Bear armed with guns, pistols, etc. Mr. Bruin evidently thought discretion the better part of valor and acting on the old adage that "he who fights and runs away will live to fight another day" took refuge in flight. Wm. M. Foster and Irvin Holmes both succeeded in wounding the bear and by the bloody tracks he left in his wake he was tracked to the Seven Mountains where he finally succeeded in making good his escape.

Muncy Boy Captured by Filipinos.

JERSEY SHORE, Oct. 15.—Walter Smith, a son of David Smith, of Muncy, and a member of Company I, First United States infantry, now in the Philippines, was on August 4 taken prisoner by the Filipino Insurgents and his fate is yet to be learned.

The news of Smith's capture was received here through a letter written by Philip Thurston, formerly of Jersey Shore, who is a private in Co. B, of the First infantry, to a friend in this place. The First infantry is located at Laguan, on the island of Samar, where the insurgents have been very hostile of late. In his letter Thurston tells of returning from a two days' "hike" (march) into the interior, and stated that a lieutenant, a corporal and a surgeon were killed and that "poor Smith, of Muncy, was taken prisoner," at Catarman, a small town 40 miles from Laguan.

Inquiry at Muncy showed that young Smith's capture was not yet known by the unfortunate boy's relatives. He is well known there and his term of enlistment would have expired on Thursday last. Whether or not he intended to re-enlist is not known.

—The Nittany Rod and Gun Club Preserve at Hecla Park was the objective point of a party of Pittsburg sportsmen who passed through here Monday night. This party was made up of Harry Vandergrift, Grant Anderson, H. Griffin, Alex King, Robert King and W. T. Humphries. They took along their shooting irons and will spend this week hunting for quail and grouse with which the preserve abounds.

SENATOR WILLIAM P. FRYE

President of the Senate on Probable Legislation.

WILL HAVE A SUBSIDY BILL

Isthmian Canal and Reciprocity to be Given a Fair Share of Attention at Next Session of Congress.

SHERMAN HAS TWO TO OFFER

WASHINGTON, October 15.—Senator Frye, of Maine, president pro tem. of the Senate, is looking forward to the coming session of Congress as one that is likely to enact legislation of an urgent and desirable nature. He has been in this city for several days, and will return home today. In an interview yesterday the Senator said, when asked in regard to the probability of the next Congress passing a shipping subsidy bill, that the shipping bill in the last Congress was filibustered to death, and that would not be done in a long session.

"Will the same bill be introduced by you?" he was asked,

"That I cannot say," he replied. "Some objections were made to this bill by the friends of government aid. I shall try, if I can without injury to the bill, to meet these objections. But what the features of the bill will be I do not desire to say at this time. I shall undoubtedly be prepared to present a bill at the next session upon the assembling of Congress. I do not believe I shall be able to present any measure which will be so promising of success as the old bill if it had become a law."

"So the concessions you will make in framing your bill will not meet your unqualified approval?"

"In my opinion they will not improve the bill, but they will improve its chances of adoption. The old bill was drastic, so drastic that it frightened a good many people, but the disease is one that requires drastic remedies. Our merchant marine was never in so bad a condition as it was last year."

"England has had hearings through a commission and her people seem to be very greatly alarmed at the progress Germany is making on the ocean, Germany is exceedingly busy. She has established lines of ships everywhere where there is trade to be looked after in the future and has secured terminal facilities in all South American states. Our necessity for foreign markets is greater every day, as the increase in our production indicates."

"Do you regard this country as having special opportunities at this time for securing trade in China?"

"Undoubtedly there are special opportunities for the nation. We have the best position in this country in the world for Chinese trade with our new possessions and with the friendly feeling that exists on the part of China and Japan for our country.

"I think Congress will do something about the Nicaragua Canal in the coming session. If the newspapers correctly state the nature of the treaty which is to be presented to the Senate I fail to see how any Senator can object to it. I myself was in favor of the old Hay-Pauncefote treaty, and regard the objections made to that as absurd, I never believed in a canal which was not neutral.

"The idea of fortifying such a highway to me was always very absurd, and the privilege to do so is of no value whatever. The right to close it in time of war against any nation hostile to us seemed to me equally absurd. No nation would dare put her four or five million dollar cruisers into a canal if she was at war with us, and nothing would delight us more than for them to be in there. I think, all the objections to the old treaty were sentimental.

"I imagine there will be a good deal of talk about reciprocity in this Congress. I am not prepared to say what will be done with the treaties now pending. I do not remember how many of them are dead by limitation. I do not wish to give any expression of my views touching them. As there is a rare possibility of my being chairman of the committee of foreign relations, the probabilities, however, being all against that, as I prefer very much to have committee on commerce."

Senator Frye regards President Roosevelt with confidence. "I have known the President for a long time," he said, "and I have a high regard for him. He has worked his own way in life and has succeeded in everything he has undertaken. I have no doubt about his capabilities, and his honesty nobody questions. He has strong convictions and the courage of them, but I have found these convictions to be in the right direction so far."

Representative Sherman, of New York, to-day announced his intention to renew the fight for anti-ticket scalping and Pacific cable legislation at the coming session of Congress. He will reintroduce early in the session measures on these subjects substantially indentical with those he introduced in the last Congress.

Opening of the Hunting Season.

The hunting season for pheasants, wild turkeys, partridges, quail and woodcock opened October 15th. Squirrels, gray, black and fox, may be shot on and after the same date.

Secretary Kalbfus, of the State Game commission, who recently made a trip through the game sections of the state, says birds of all kinds and squirrels are unusually plentiful. They are to be seen in sections of the state where they have not been known for 20 years past. He predicts a good hunting season.

Mr. Kalbfus will wage a war on violators of the game laws this year and to the end of carrying out the state laws will invoke to his aid the act of March 22nd, 1899, which makes the constables of the state ex-officio forestry, game and fish wardens, and requires them to prosecute all violations of the forestry, fish or game laws coming under their immediate notice or reported to them in writing in a manner prescribed by the act.

The penalty for neglecting or refusing to so act is $50, or two months imprisonment. Constables get $10 extra from the county for successful prosecution of all game cases, besides this under the act of 1897 the informer is entitled to one half of all fines recovered. So that where the constable is the informer he is certainly well paid for his services.

By the aid of the constables and the agents of the commission Mr. Kalbfus hopes to prevent many violations and to apprehend and punish those who hunt regardless of the law and who formerly went free.

McKinley's Last Appointment.

Probably the last appointment made by the late President McKinley before his assassination was that of Lieut. John S. Fair, of Altoona, one of the volunteer officers recently granted commissions in the regular army service.

Lieutenant Fair was notified of his appointment to a first lieutenancy in the Ninth Cavalry the day before the President's fateful trip to Buffalo. He was at Canton that day and saw the President there and was then notified of his appointment.

Lieutenant Fair has already reported for duty at the Columbus barracks. Although he is a young man he bears a commendable military record. Having begun in the Fifth regiment, N. G. P., he rose from the ranks to adjutant of the regiment and held that office when the Spanish-American war broke out. From the Fifth he went with the Forty-third to the Philippines as captain of Company B, and served in the eventful campaign of the Forty-third in the Philippines, being mustered out last spring.

His gallantry and successful service in the Philippines won him the appointment in the Ninth cavalry.

A Coming Musical Treat.

On Thursday evening October 24, the citizens of Bellefonte and vicinity will have the pleasure of listening to a musical treat such as is rarely offered outside the larger cities. The occasion will be the organ recital to be given in the Methodist Episcopal church by Miss Isabel MacDowell, organist of the Market Square Presbyterian church of Harrisburg. She will be assisted by Miss Worley, contralto Miss Hench, soprano, and Mr. Kinnard, barytone, all of Harrisburg. All remember with pleasure the recital given by Miss MacDowell at the time of the re-dedication of the Methodist church last April, and the coming event will equal if not surpass that one.

The admission will be 50 cents and the recital begins at 8 o'clock.

A quiet Home Wedding.

The Irwin homestead at Jacksonville was the scene Wednesday afternoon at 1 o'clock of a very pretty wedding ceremony, the contracting parties being Miss Gertrude Irwin, of Jacksonville, and Mr. Elmer C. Ross, a prominent young business man of Lemont.

The wedding was a quiet affair owing to the recent death of the groom's father and only the immediate families were present. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Jones of the Lick Run Presbyterian church and Miss Sue Irwin, a sister of the bride was maid of honor.

The bride is the daughter of the late William Irwin and a sister of D. Allison Irwin, of Jacksonville.

RESERVOIR WALL BROKE

Some very Exciting Scenes at East Liverpool, Ohio.

WERE MANY NARROW ESCAPES

The Reservoir Had Been Completed Only a Few Days Ago and Had Been Filled for the First Time Sunday Morning.

PROPERTY LOSS MAY BE $150,000

EAST LIVERPOOL, Ohio, October 14.—A large reservoir containing 10,000,000 gallons of water burst yesterday and caused great damage. No lives were lost, but a score of people had narrow escapes. The money loss will reach probably $150,000. The reservoir, which is owned by the city and which was only completed a few days ago, was filled Sunday morning for the first time. It was taxed to its utmost capacity when the break occurred.

A gang of laborers was laying pipes in a ditch near the wall which gave way and miraculously escaped death. The basin is located five hundred feet above the pumping station on the highest hill in the city. A number of houses are located on the hillside between the reservoir and the city proper. When the wall gave way the water shot down the incline with a mighty roar, the noise made warned the occupants of the endangered houses, who rushed to a place of safety in time to save themselves. A party of children were playing in a road directly in the pathway of the torrent and though caught by the rushing water were rescued before drowned.

A number of large trees were torn from their roots and carried down the hillside with lightning rapidity, being jammed with terrific force against the walls of the Harker Pottery company plant. The main building with several smaller structures was badly wrecked. Two large kilns and sheds were dashed to pieces and $25,000 worth of ware ruined.

The tracks of the Cleveland and Pittsburg railroad were covered with thousands of tons of debris and traffic is blocked. The street car lines running parallel with the railroad suffered, and traffic for a half mile had been abandoned. The pumping station was in the direct pathway of the flood and filled with wreckage, which so damaged the engines that they cannot be used. Several houses were moved from their foundations, outbuildings carried away and a number of freight cars on a side track overturned. The loss is estimated at from $100,000 to $150,000.

Entertained by Sir Thomas Lipton.

James W. Lipton, a former Bellefonter, had the good fortune recently to be royally entertained by Sir Thomas Lipton, the popular owner of the English racing yacht "Shamrock." James is a first cousin of Sir Thomas and the later during his recent stay in this country, sent for his cousin, had him brought to New York and there entertained him on the fat of the land in a style befitting a Prince of the realm.

James W. Lipton is quite well known to many of the residents of this vicinity and especially so to the older people. He is an uncle of Mrs. Harry R Curtin, of Roland, and was born at Milesburg. At one time he was proprietor of a hotel in this place. Later he went to Downs, Kansas, where, he has been successfully conducting a Temperance hotel ever since.

THE UNITED TELEPHONE AND TELEGRAPH COMPANY.

In Which Bellefonte and Other Central Pennsylvania Towns are Interested.

The United Telephone and Telegraph company has just made another important addition to its plan of organizing a giant system. The company a day or two ago, absorbed the People's Telephone company, of Lebanon. The proportions of the United company is now becoming apparent. By the recent incorporation of the Cumberland Valley Telephone company, subsidary to the United Telephone and Telegraph company, and the union of the Schuylkill Valley Telephone company, the former parent organization has acquired such a complete network of wires throughout the state and has options on so many contiguous local companies in New York and other states, that within the next six months, its officers say, long distance service will be established from Philadelphia to Chicago and to all important points in New York and Pennsylvania. The Cumberland Valley line, running from Harrisburg through the Cumberland Valley, and reaching all the larger cities in the southwestern part of the state, with its terminus in the District of Columbia, will, by connection with other controlled companies, branch out to Pittsburg. At that point the west, as far as Chicago, with its intermediate territory, will be reached through an allied independent company.

The United Telephone and Telegraph company, controlling more than thirty local companies in the state, has now a complete service in operation from Darby to Altoona, Lancaster, Lebanon, Norristown, Chester, West Chester, Coatesville, Pottstown, Media, Pottsville, Shenandoah, Mahanoy City, Ashland, Shamokin, Lewisburg, Sunbury, Milton, Danville, Bloomsburg, Catawissa, Bellefonte, Lock Haven, Williamsport, Tyrone and more than one hundred towns tributary to these centres. The union of the dozen or so local companies along the Lehigh valley from Allentown to Scranton and Wilkesbarre, under the name of the Schuylkill Valley Telephone company, Robert E Wright, Allentown, president, with a capital of $40,000,000 offers the United company a complete service to every point in the state. The completion of the many local companies, especially in Lancaster, Lebanon and Williamsport, and their telephone connection with the local companies, has already given the United a quite extensive service.

The United Telephone and Telegraph company and its allied organizations now represents a capital of more than $10,000,000. It was organized in January, 1901, and the twenty-one local companies in the state were combined under that name. The officers are Richard G. Park, president; W. D. Barnard, vice president, and E. A. Scott, secretary. The board of directors are R. G. Park, West Chester; E. H. Leader, Shamokin; W. A. P. Thompson, Coatesville; George W. Taft, Kennett Square; F. G. Hobson, Norristown; H. H. Light, Lebanon; B. F. Meyers, Harrisburg; J. T. Baker, Lewisburg, W. W. Ryon, Shamokin; Edward Davis, Philadelphia, Ellis L. Orvis, Bellefonte, Ellis Doan, Coatesville; C. M. Clement, Sunbury; W. D. Barnard, Philadelphia; S. P. Light, Lebanon; G. R. Van Allen, Northumberland; J. Frank Black, Chester; Ward R. Bliss, Chester; F. C. Angle, Danville; E. M. Yarnall, Philadelphia; R. A. He was on the battleship Iowa during the Santiago fight, saw service in the Philippines and in China.

Painting Pullmans Red.

Pullman cars on the Pennsylvania railroad are being painted the standard maroon red. For many years the Pullman company regarded its color as a trade mark, but a few years ago it agreed to a departure from its rule in the cases of the Royal Blue line on the Baltimore and Ohio-Reading route, and the F. F. V. limited of the Chesapeake and Ohio.

Difficult Digestion

That is dyspepsia.
It makes life miserable.
Its sufferers eat not because they want to, —but because they must.
They know they are irritable and fretful; but they cannot be otherwise.
They complain of a bad taste in the mouth, a tenderness at the pit of the stomach, an uneasy feeling of puffy fulness, headache, heartburn and what not.

Farmers' Institutes.

Deputy Secretary of Agriculture Martin expects to hold a series of 320 farmers' institutes during the coming winter, under the direction of the department of agriculture. The last legislature increased the annual allowance for these gatherings from $12 500 to $15,000. This will enable the department to employ additional lecturers and increase the number of institutes. The average cost of each institute is $37 per day, and it is estimated that they reach in the aggregate 150,000 persons annually.

A Fiendish Attack.

An attack was lately made on C. F. Collier of Cherokee, Iowa, that nearly proved fatal. It came through his kidneys. His back got so lame he could not stoop without great pain, nor sit in a chair except propped by cushions No remedy helped him until he tried Electric Bitters which effected such a wonderful change that he writes he feels like a new man This marvelous medicine cures backache and kidney trouble, purifies the blood and builds up your health. Edward Arnold Held for Murder.

Edward Arnold, who Wednesday of last week, killed the negro Jim. Denton, on the streets of Lewisburg, is held for trial at the January term of court on the charge of murder. Arnold claims to have committed the act in self defense. A witness who saw the whole transaction from her bed room window, testified that the colored man was the aggressor in the combat. This bit of evidence will no doubt save Arnold his neck.

"Take care of the pennies and the pounds will take care of themselves."

Large things are but an aggregation of small things. If we take care of the small things we are in effect taking care of the large things which the small things combine to make.

Take care of what you eat, when you eat, and how you eat, and your stomach will take care of itself. But who takes care of such trivial things? That is why, someday, the majority of people have to take care of the stomach. When that day comes, there is no aid so effective in undoing the results of past carelessness as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It strengthens the stomach, and restores the organs of digestion and nutrition to a condition of healthy activity. It cures biliousness, heartburn, flatulence, indigestion, palpitation, dizziness, cold extremities and a score of other ailments which are but the symptoms of disorder in the stomach and its allied organs.

Rickard in the Toils.

Charles Rickard was arrested last week at Lewisburg, by our county detective, Joe Rightnour, and brought to Bellefonte Thursday morning and lodged in jail.

Rickard is the man who got away with eighteen dollars of Mr. Samuel Lewins' and, it is reported, beat a boarding mistress out of a twenty dollar board bill. The time for his hearing has not been announced.

FOLLOWED THE LEADER.

A Case Where Naval Cadets Turned Discipline Into a Joke.

Among other good stories told by Cyrus Townsend Brady in his "Under Tops'ls and Tents," published by Scribners, is this:

It is related that a large number of naval cadets were negligent in following the service in the chapel, which was after the ritual of the Episcopal church. An incautious officer in charge on Sunday morning made a little address to the church party on the subject, saying he supposed that some of them erred through ignorance, but if they would observe him carefully and do as he did—in military parlance, follow the motions of the commanding officer—they would not go wrong.

Word was passed quietly through the battalion. They marched into the church. The officer in charge took his place in the front pew, settled himself in his seat and calmly blew his nose. Three hundred noses were blown simultaneously with a vehemence that was startling. The officer looked around and blushed violently in great surprise. Three hundred heads "followed the motions of the commanding officer." Six hundred cheeks violently tried to blush, a hard thing to for a midshipman to do, and so on through the service.

The man could not stir without instant imitation. He finally confined himself strictly to the prescribed ritual of the service, looking neither to the right nor to the left, not daring to raise a finger or breathe out of the ordinary course. This enterprise also was a startling success.

The cadets received other instructions later in the day from a furious officer who sternly resented their innocent statements that they did not know which was ritual and which was not and that he had not instructed them that blowing his nose stood on a different plane from saying his prayers. It was a huge joke everywhere.

BEE AND HIVE.

If the hive rests on the ground, it will be too damp.

It will pay to use foundations by filling all frames full.

Set the hive a little above the ground to admit of a circulation of air.

From 9 o'clock a. m. to 3 o'clock p. m. includes the hours of successful operating with bees.

Procure new blood in the apiary. Inbreeding is as objectionable with bees as with live stock.

It is necessary to unite all weak colonies that will be unable to build up into strong stocks.

Care should be taken to save all young brood and the brood combs of those containing brood.

On account of it being the only material that can be depended upon to stay pine is the best material for hives.

Combs should not be left in empty hives about the apiary. That is the worst place they can be left, as moths are always to be found near the bees and are sure to infest the combs.

One advantage in closed end frames is that a hive full of combs may be handled as though it were a single piece instead of a collection of loose pieces, thus saving work, worry and time.

If the bees cannot conveniently enter the hives during the sudden changes of cool weather, quite a number will be lost; hence care should be taken to have the entrances arranged so that the bees can enter readily.

Knots on Trees.

In the barks of our forest trees are contained a multitude of latent buds, which are developed and grow under certain favorable conditions. Some trees possess this property in a remarkable degree, and often, when the other parts are killed down by frost, the property of pushing out these latent buds into growth preserves the life of the plant. These buds, having once begun to grow, adhere to the woody layer at their base and push out their points through the back toward the light.

The buds then unfold and develop leaves, which elaborate the sap carried up the small shoot. Once elaborated it descends by the bark, when it reaches the base or inner bark. Here it is arrested, so to speak, and deposited between the outside and inner layer of bark, as can be learned on examining specimens on the trees in the woods almost anywhere.

Manx Taxes.

In the matter of taxation the Isle of Man is unique. There is no income tax, no succession duties chargeable against the estates of deceased persons, no highway or turnpike tolls. Roads are maintained by the revenue from two sources—a small tax upon every wheel and shod hoof and a levy upon every male inhabitant, who must give a day's work on the road or its equivalent in cash. There are no stamp duties on receipts, checks, promissory notes, etc.; in fact, stamps are used only for postage.—London Standard.

Penner—Say, give me a synonym for "psychic," will you?

Wright—Well, there's "psychological."

Penner—All right. How do you spell it?

Wright—Why—er—oh, I give it up. Why not use "psychic?"

Penner—I would, but I don't know how to spell that.—Philadelphia Press.

MODERN MISERS.

Men Who Starve Themselves to Accumulate Money.

There is a certain fearful fascination about the stories of the misers of the past. The money they accumulated was of no more practical value to them than the trinkets stolen and secreted by some magpie or jackdaw. They hid it from the sight and use of men and in silence and secret gloated over the useless wealth. To gather it they lived on crusts or offal, grudged clothes to cover them and fire to warm them, lived starved lives and in not a few cases died of starvation. That was the old-time miser. The modern miser resembles this man of the past in the particular that he frequently dies of starvation. In his eagerness to gather money he pays small heed to the claims of health. He eats anything, anyhow, anywhen, and anywhere. He doesn't eat crusts by any means nor spare his purse to fill his stomach. The mistake he makes is in thinking that when a man has filled his stomach, that is the end of the business of feeding. Instead of being the end of feeding it's only the beginning. There is no value in food unless it is digested, converted into nutrition and assimilated. These processes depend upon the healthfulness of the stomach and the other organs of digestion and nutrition. When these organs are diseased they cannot extract the nutrition from the food received into the stomach and the body becomes weak through lack of nourishment. One day this "weakness" begins to find a special development in some chief organ, heart, liver, lungs, kidneys, etc., to which the man succumbs. The doctor's certificate reads "heart disease," "kidney disease," as the case may be.

But the real reading of the certificate should be:

STARVED TO DEATH.

The truth of this statement is apparent. The body is sustained by food digested and assimilated. But the body is made up of its parts and organs, and when the stomach is "weak," digestion imperfect, and the nutrition extracted from food inadequate to the needs of the body, the result is shared by every part and organ of the body. For this reason no man is stronger than his stomach, and no organ sustained by the stomach can be stronger than the stomach. Therefore when we hear of "weak" stomach we are pretty sure we are going to hear in time of "weak" heart, "weak" lungs, "weak" kidneys, or weakness of some other organ of the body dependent on the stomach and its associated organs of digestion and nutrition.

Now these things being true when a man has heart "trouble," liver "trouble," kidney "trouble," etc., where is the first place to look for the cause of the disease? Why, where else can it be but the stomach? The most probable cause of these forms of "weakness" is deficient nutrition resulting from the "weak" condition of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. And if these diseases of heart, liver, lungs, kidneys, etc., begin in the stomach they must be cured through the stomach.

IT'S AN EVERY DAY AFFAIR

to receive letters reporting the cure of diseased kidneys, weak heart, torpid liver, or lung "trouble" through the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

But one may say, "'Golden Medical Discovery' is a medicine for the stomach and blood, in particular."

Exactly so. And that is why it cures diseases remote from the stomach but which have their origin in disease of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and digestive and nutritive systems. The food taken into the body is then converted into nutrition which is supplied to heart, lungs, kidneys, and other organs which are made strong by nutrition. Disease is thrown off. New strength comes to every tissue and fiber of the body.

"I suffered for four years with pain in my stomach so that at times I couldn't work nor eat," writes Mr. Frank Smith, of Granite, Chaffee Co., Colo. "I wrote to you about my sickness and was told to use your medicine, which I did with good results. I only used four bottles of your 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and must say that I am entirely cured, and feel like a new man, and I can highly recommend your medicine to any sufferer."

"I was troubled with malarial fever of about three years' standing and was under doctors' care for quite a time," writes Mr. J. F. Kidd, of Parmleysville, Wayne County, Ky. "They had almost given me up, and my suffering was very great. My pulse was weak, breath short and I had severe pains in back, head and legs. Had palpitation of heart, and from June 1st, 1895, to May 1st, 1898, I was not able to do a day's work. I purchased five bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and before I had finished taking the first two bottles I was very much better of my disease of three years' standing. I continued taking the medicine, and by the time the fifth bottle was gone I was a well man. I can cheerfully recommend Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery to any similar sufferer."

"In 1898, one of my daughters was suffering on account of a severe cough, hectic fever, wasting of flesh and other symptoms of diseased lungs," writes Rev. Joseph H. Fesperman, of Barium Springs, Iredell Co., N. C. "I promptly gave her Dr. R. V. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery with gratifying success and she now enjoys excellent [illegible] perience caused me to recommend Dr. Pierce's medicines to my neighbors, who, without exception, used them with favorable results. This being true, I hereby heartily endorse your medicines."

Mother Saves Her Children.

By the most heroic efforts, Mrs. William Harquist, of Austin, Potter county, carried her infant child and a baby 2 years old from their burning home Tuesday evening. The mother and four children had retired and were sleeping, William Harquist, the father, was at work. His home is completely destroyed.

PLENTY OF CONSTRUCTIVE WORK

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—R. G. Dun & Company's Weekly Review of Trade says this morning:

Reports from all sections of the country agree that there has seldom, if ever, been such vigorous prosecution of constructive work. Labor is employed at good wages, and the buying power of the people is more than sufficient to meet the advance in the cost of living of 4.6 per cent. over prices prevailing a year ago.

Wholesome activity is still the feature at iron furnaces and steel mills. While old orders are filled as rapidly as possible, there is no immediate prospect of catching up with contracts, especially as each day brings new business with deliveries running far into next year. Idle plants are resuming as rapidly as arrangements can be made, and tin plate mills are adopting the latest and best processes. Domestic needs are so urgent in nearly all branches of this industry that export orders are receiving scanty attention, but there is reason to expect much activity in foreign sales whenever the home trade resumes a normal position.

Pig iron production on October 1, according to the Iron Age, was at the rate of 507,982 tons weekly, an increase of 8,121 tons over the output on September 1, and 84,813 tons more than in October, 1900. Yet furnace stocks steadily decrease, amounting to only 361,593 tons October 1, against 670,531 a year ago, and supplies in consumers' hands are believed to be light.

Quiet conditions prevail in the dry goods market, not because of light demand, but through the strong views of sellers.

Slightly better relative prices have been established by the leading cereals, wheat making a fair gain, while corn lost a little of its exceptional strength. There is no evidence of holding back for higher prices in western receipts for two weeks of 15,838,316 bushels against 12,718,383 last year when more attractive quotations prevailed. Exports for the week, flour included, reached 4,199,328 bushels, against 3,588,429 in the same week a year ago. The movement of corn is light receipts at the same interior amounting to only 2,760,262 bushels, against 4,626,200 in the same week last year, while exports from the Atlantic coast where but 535,251 bushels, against 707,268 in 1901.

Failures for the week numbered 231 in the United States against 233 last year, and 34 in Canada against 32 last year.

—Thursday morning about 11.30 o'clock while John Bickel was feeding a thresher at Charles Bickel's farm in Bald Eagle, he was struck on the right hand by a large knife, which was being used by George Berry in cutting sheaves open. It cut off all the leaders and veins in the wrist, and the wound bled profusely. He immediately called on Dr Painter, who dressed the injury. It required ten stitches.

—John Holbrook, formerly of Houtzdale, and well known throughout Clearfield county, died yesterday at the Clearfield hospital of diabetes, aged 49 years. He is survived by a brother, a resident Judge in New York City, and his venerable father, living in Brattleboro, Vt., aged 90 years, who was governor of that state during the civil war, and who is the only war governor now living.

VERY MUCH WANTED

The Last Few Years Has Shown a Remarkable Increase of Sleeplessness—How to Overcome It.

Sleeplessness is one of the most prolific sources producing weak, nervous and restless condition. There is no sense in using opiates, they only undermine the constitution. Nothing has ever been known to perfectly control this condition until the advent of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills. Their action is so gentle and soothing, sweeet refreshing sleep follows, then nature has a chance to build up.

Mrs. S. H. Sankey, of No. 203 Oak St., Philipsburg, Pa., says: "I can recommend Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills to anyone who from overwork, overstrain or excitement finds themselves in a run down, nervous, sleepless condition. The Nerve Pills were recommended to me and I got some. Their work was of a character that not only permits but makes it a pleasure for me to recommend them to others as a nerve tonic capable of giving strength, nerve steadiness and sleep.

By calling at Krumrine's drug store information can be obtained regarding this great success of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills and how they were first introduced by proof of their merit.

Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills are sold at 50c a box at dealers or Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co., Buffalo, N. Y. See that portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M. D., are on every package.

New Developments in the Bennett Tragedy.

New developments have been brought to light in the Bennett tragedy, which occurred near DuBois, Tuesday night. It will be remembered that it was reported that John Bennett had killed his wife and then shot himself. They had quarreled and separated, and it was thought that he had killed the woman and then himself, as a revolver was found beside him. From what has been learned the last few days that theory has been discarded.

It is now alleged that Harry Bennett, a 17 year old son of a former wife, quarreled with both father and stepmother and fled. On the day before the discovery he did not work. That evening he asked to borrow a revolver from Roy Shaffer, son of the man for whom he was working, saying that he wanted to kill his father and stepmother. At 9 o'clock the bodies were found. At 11 o'clock "Minnie Lee," a fast pacing mare, was discovered missing, together with the Bennett boy.

A chase was at once begun and the lad was traced to Clearfield, 15 miles distant, where he traded horses with a liveryman. He rode the fresh horse at a hard pace to Woodland, where he boarded a freight train bound for Williamsport. Officers are now hot on his trail.

A Warning To Women Travelers.

The following incident will serve to illustrate a new scheme that sharps of western cities are working, with more or less success, on unsuspecting women travelers. It is a clever one and so adroitly managed that it is little wonder that many are ensnared. A Bellefonte woman was recently marked as prey in Chicago, but her good judgment saved her from being robbed and probably a far worse fate.

She had been West and was homeward bound, when she decided to stop off in Chicago for a short visit with a cousin, who was married and living in one of the suburbs of that city. Of course the cousin had been apprised of her coming by letter, but she was admonished against trying to get into Chicago to meet her relative from this place at such an inconvenient hour as 7 a. m., that being the time her train would reach the city. The traveler arriving at the station got off and went leisurely to the restaurant where she had breakfast. After finishing the meal she took a seat in the main waiting room, at the head of the stairs leading down to the train shed, to idle the time away until her cousin would come. She had been seated there only a few moments, when a well dressed, respectable looking man approached her and, raising his hat, said: "You are Mrs. ——" She said "yes, that is who I am," and then he said, hurriedly: "Well, you are my wife's cousin, so come right along with me." By this time the lady had gotten to her feet, whereupon the man familiarly took her arm, as if to lead her out of the station. Fortunately she had a slight recollection as what her cousin's husband looked like and it suddenly flashed through her mind that this man in no wise resembled him. Then she turned and said: "No sir, I will not go with you. I came to meet a lady and will wait until she comes." At this the man hastened out of the station. A little later the cousin arrived and was greatly astonished when she heard the story, for she knew that her husband was at his place of business and had had no idea of going to the station.

The incident was not followed up until a short time ago when it was told to a young Pittsburger who was enough interested to relate it to the superintendent of police of that city. That official informed him that the scheme was a new one that is being worked with much success in western cities, where it is supposed that the sharp gets the name of his dupe from servants employed in the home she is expected to visit. This would be very easy of accomplishment and an identifying description of the visitor might also be had in this way if there should happen to be a picture of her in the house which the servant could see and describe to her accomplice.

Happily, in this case, the woman's good judgment saved her, but how many unsuspecting women or girls, or even men might fall into just such a cleverly laid trap? It is well worth remembering and should be a warning to everyone visiting strange places to have a care as to whom they put confidence in and to be a little curious as to the whys and wherefores of things when alone.

—The postal money orders sold in the United States during the past fiscal year reached a total of $300,000,000 in round numbers. This is an increase of almost $40,000,000 over the previous year.

OPENING OF THE HUNTING SEASON.

Only One Accident Has Been Reported So Far to Mar the Days Pleasure.

Tuesday marked the opening of the hunting season and almost everyone who had a spark of sporting blood in their veins, hied themselves to the woods in search of game. Footsore and weary they returned home in the evening reporting that their luck was not as good as in former years. Pheasants, turkeys, quail and squirrels are reported however, to be quite plentiful. The trouble was that hunters were unable to drive them from their cover, and the bag was not over five birds, while many came home empty handed.

The Nittany Rod and Gun Club house is now occupied by twenty-five members from Pittsburg, Philadelphia, Reading, Williamsport and other places, who came there for the opening of the season. These sportsmen have been very successful, bagging the full limit of fifteen birds. After the day's hunt the club held its annual meeting, when the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President J. L. H. Denny, Ligonier; vice president, S. H. Vandergrift, Pittsburg; secretary and treasurer, John M, Dale, Bellefonte.

As a result of the opening of the hunting season a serious accident occurred. David Diehl, of Springbanks, went out for wild turkeys. He had just succeeded in killing a large turkey, when he slung it over his shoulder. While walking along in the woods he stooped down to fix his gun. Back of him came Howard Archer, of Aaronsburg, who caught sight of the turkey on Diehl's back and promptly fired. Diehl fell, and afterwards was taken to Rebersburg, where fourteen large shot were picked out of his arm and shoulder and a couple out of his neck. Seventeen shot went through his arm, and the probabilities are that his injuries will prove fatal.

Fire at Reynoldsville.

DuBois, Oct. 15.—Fire which broke out at a late hour Sunday night burned over a block and a half of the business section of Reynoldsville, Jefferson county, gutted 14 business places, including the Hotel McConnell, one of the town's largest hotels, and four dwelling houses. The loss is estimated at $90,000, on which there is insurance of $17,000. DuBois was called upon for assistance and fire apparatus sent from here did effective assistance in checking the spread of the flames.

The origin of the fire is unknown. It started in a large frame building occupied jointly by Liveryman Thos. Tapper and Ezra Hartman, blacksmith, and there is a belief that it was the work of an incendiary.

The persons burned out and their losses are, F. J. Black, Hotel McConnell, $15,000; Thos. Tapper, livery stable and dwelling house, $8,000; Ezra Hartman, blacksmith shop and dwelling, $4,000; E. Weiser, building, $4,000; Swartz Bros., grocers, $3,500; E. T. McGraw, building, $6,000, F. A. McConnell, building, $3,000; L. Evans, grocer, $2,000; Deibel Bros., building, $2,000; M. Geister. tailor, $1,500; W, E. Stormer, butcher, $2,000; Mrs. Louise Baum, boarding house, $2,000; Edw'd Philips, barber, $1,500; A. Snyder, tailor, $1,500. The losses of several other parties range from $600 to $1,000.

Burglars In Her Closet.

At Renovo Saturday night Mrs. John F. Strasser was disturbed in her slumbers by seeing a light flash from the closet in her bedroom. She looked a little closer, and saw a man standing in the closet searching the clothing. Mrs. Strasser arose, snatched a revolver, and then called her husband, who was asleep in another room. As soon as the burglar heard Mrs. Strasser call, he extinguished his light, closed the door, and stepped quietly backwards to the stairway, and soon escaped from the building. Mrs. Strasser did not attempt to shoot the intruder, when she saw that he was taking his leave without making trouble. Mr. Strasser wanted the revolver to go after the man, but Mrs. Strasser would not let him. The man took twenty-seven cents from a vest pocket, but did not see a gold watch, which was in another pocket.

Of Interest to Farmers.

The farmer who is satisfied with salted pork instead of the sugar-cured article is not living up to his opportunities. Any farmer who has hogs to kill can have sugar cured pork if he wants it. The hams, shoulders and sidemeat should each have a separate barrel for best results. For each 100 pounds of meat take 10 gallons of water, 8 pounds of salt, 4 pounds of brown sugar and 1 ounce of saltpetre; boil all together and let it cool. Rub meat with fine salt, pack closely in a barrel and weight it down. Leaving it in the brine 6 weeks makes it all right for eating, and then it is lifted, drained and smoked. After that it is good enough for a king or anybody.

A Good Indian Dead.

PAWHUSKA, O. T., October 15.—Saucy Chief, leader of the progressive element of Osage Indians, is dead here after a lingering illness. He joined the home guard of Kansas City in 1862 and served the government with distinction, participating in a number of battles in the southwest. He assisted in making several Osage treaties with the government, and was three times elected principal chief of his tribe.

Inter-County Educational Conference

At Philipsburg, November 1st and 2nd, the educators of Centre, Clearfield and adjoining counties will hold a conference and round table to discuss the prominent educational questions of the day. These conferences have in recent years become an important feature in the profession of teaching in different parts of the state, and the coming one promises to be one of unusual interest, inasmuch as many of the leading teachers are giving it their heartiest support, and have given their assurance of being present and taking part in the discussions.

Few towns are better located or better adapted than Philipsburg for an educational meeting. Its magnificent school building and the liberal manner in which the schools are supplied with all the requisites to successful teaching is sufficient evidence of the interest taken by the people of Philipsburg in their schools, an interest that is probably not surpassed by any similar community in the state. The town is easily reached by rail from every direction and visitors can attend the three sessions of the conference—Friday evening and Saturday forenoon and afternoon—and get away in time to reach their homes anywhere within fifty or a hundred miles radius. The invitation to attend is general. Teachers, no matter in what grade they teach, are requested to be present. Directors are urged to come, and parents will find the sessions interesting, and by attending will come into closer touch with the school work of the present day. Prospectively, this meeting promises to mark an epoch in local educational meetings.

No Spikes or Ties.

The American Railway Tie and Girder company of Pittsburg was chartered, with a capital of $1,000, at Harrisburg recently. The purpose of the company is to manufacture a steel railroad girder invented by Samuel E. Duff, a civil engineer, and former superintendent of motive power on the Northern Pacific railroad.

The girder in question is intended to form a bed for the rails of a railroad track, the girder running parallel with the rails. Every four feet the girders are tied together by a rod. The rails are fastened upon the girders by means of an interlocking flange, thus doing away with the spikes for holding down the rails, No wooden ties are used, the girders being laid on a foundation of ballasts. It is the intention of the company to build a half mile of track on one of the Pittsburg roads, with a view of testing the venture.

Law for Secret Societies.

Judge Ehrgood, in the court of common pleas, Lebanon county, established a precedent in the matter of the rights of members of secret societies in benefit claims.

Ira J. Light, who was over a year in arrears in the Knights of the Golden Eagle, settled by paying $3, under a resolution adopted by the lodge. Six months later his wife died and his claim for $50 benefits were refused on the ground that he was not in good standing. The court ordered a verdict for the plaintiff because he had been carried on the rolls as a member.

EASILY DECIDED.

This Question Should be Answered Easily by Bellefonte People.

Which is wiser, to have confidence in the opinions of your fellow citizens or depend on statements made by utter strangers? Read this:

Mr, Walter Whippo of Water street, leading horse-shoer of Bellefonte, says: "I have a good word to say for Doan's Kidney Pills. I was miserable with backache and a lameness across my loins. I knew it was from my kidneys, for I had suffered from it prior to that. Sometimes I could hardly straighten after bending forward which greatly interfered with my work. I learned about Doan's Kidney Pills procured them at F. Potts Green's drug store and began using them. I had taken other medicine and worn plasters but I never had anything act as promptly as Doan's Kidney Pills. I have been quite free from the whole trouble ever since."

THE COOKBOOK.

A cup of butter means sixteen tablespoons. When we measure butter in a cup, we measure it packed solid.

One cup of sauce means one cup of liquid, regardless of the amount of thickening and butter that you use.

A novel and dainty way of cooking little new onions is to boil them and serve them on toast, similar to asparagus.

Stir all sauces with a wooden spoon until they thicken and begin to leave the sides of the pan. Add flavoring essences after taking the pot from the fire.

After boiling a ham let it cool in the water in which it was cooked. This helps to make it more tasty, moist and tender. The same rule applies to tongue or corned beef.

Sardines broiled in a chafing dish are nice for Sunday night suppers. Use just enough of the oil in the box to cover the bottom of the dish and keep the fish from sticking. When they are browned on both sides, sprinkle liberally with lemon juice and serve hot.

Carried Further.

Not long ago a lady was giving a lecture. Her subject was the human figure and the requirements in the way of proportion for beauty. She herself was of generous—one may say unwieldy—size, and her manner was supercilious and lofty. She was trying to demonstrate the relative sizes of the limbs as they really ought to be.

"For example," said she, "twice round my thumb"—she held it up—"once round my wrist; twice round my wrist, once round my neck; twice round my neck, once round my waist."

Here she paused, and a shrill voice from the audience exclaimed:

"Twice round your waist, once around Hyde park!"

The lecturer hastily passed on to another branch of the subject.—London Answers.

How Old Spiders Live.

Old spiders, which have neither web nor the materials to make one, often hunt about to find out the webs of other spiders, younger and weaker than themselves, with whom they venture battle. The invader generally succeeds, and the younger spider is driven out to make a new web, and the old spider remains in possession until a stronger spider invades the web and drives it out. When thus dispossessed, the spider seldom ventures another attack, but tries to subsist upon the few insects that may fall accidentally into its clutches and eventually dies of hunger.

The Blind Leading the Blind.

Little Ina had always lived in the country until her parents moved to the seat of the State Normal college. Ina was sent to the "practice school" of that institution, where during one hour of each day she was taught by members of the senior training class.

When asked how she liked the school, she replied, "I love my regular teacher dearly, but I don't much like it when those false teachers come in."—Harper's Magazine.

A COLUMBUS STATUE.

The Story of a Brass Founder's Transformation of Gambrinus.

A story is told of a brass founder who was one day visited by a friend acting as agent for one of the cities of Central America. The agent asked what it would cost to cast a statue of Christopher Columbus for the public square of the city. The amount was far in excess of the sum which the man had at his disposal. He was about leaving in despair of being able to secure the statue when the brass founder said:

"Come back in the junk yard and let us see what can be found there."

He went back, and the brass founder showed him a colossal statue of Gambrinus, recently removed from the front of a large brewing establishment. Under his feet rested a beer keg, in his hand was a large and overflowing schooner, his beard was long and shaggy, and about his brows was wreathed a garland of barley and hops.

"Why, this will never do," said the commission merchant. "I want a statue of Columbus."

"Wait until I have touched this one up. Come back in about a week and see what you think of it. If it suits you, you can have it for the amount you have at your disposal."

As soon as the visitor had gone the brass founder set two men at work on the figure of Gambrinus. They removed the beer keg from under his right foot and placed there an anchor and a coil of rope, from his hand they removed the goblet and substituted a globe, with the continents traced on it; from his brow they took the wreath of barley and hops and substituted a wreath of laurel and then proceeded to trim up his whiskers. The finishing touch consisted in putting at the base of the statue "Cristoforo Colombo."

When the commission merchant came, he was delighted with the figure and, purchasing it, shipped it to the Central American city, where it adorns the public square and is looked upon with veneration by the citizens of that town.—New York Times.

FIRES CAUSED BY NAILS.

Particularly Guarded Against by Firms That Handle Cotton.

"Speaking of insurance matters," said a listener, "I suppose the plain, old fashioned nail has caused more fires in the big establishments where machinery is used in many and complicated ways than any other little thing in existence. The only thing needed is for it to come in contact with some other hard material with sufficient force to cause a spark and heat generation. Nails have really produced a heavy per cent of the cotton fires of the country. During recent years, on account of steps taken by the owners and conductors of the larger cotton and byproduct plants at the instance of insurance men, the nail has not been such a prolific producer of fires.

"A way has been found, for instance, in cotton gins, cotton mills and in plants where cottonseed are put through manufacturing processes, of extracting nails and other weighty and flinty substances that may find lodgment in these inflammable products. Gravity is the natural force used. Nails and rocks and materials of this kind are heavier than cotton and its byproducts, and they have a tendency to force their way to the bottom of the heap. By allowing these products to pass over a rolling belt arrangement these heavier materials filter toward the bottom and are finally extracted, so that when the cotton or the cottonseed passes through the grind in the various manufacturing processes there is but little danger from fire so far as these things are concerned."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

About Writing One's Name.

People who sign their letters with wild flourishes or initials only and give no address offer one of the worst of compliments to their correspondent by egotistically assuming that their handwriting must be of such familiar importance to him or that they and their affairs are so present to his mind that further identification is unnecessary. Having their signature cut from the end of a letter and the address from its heading pasted on the envelope which incloses a reply is a bad compliment which many persons bring upon themselves by an unpardonable illegibility. It is a singular fact that accidental misspelling or mispronunciation of one's name generally constitutes a greater affront and is provocative of more annoyance than a studied insult.—All the Year Round.

Brotherly Help.

"Sis will be down in a minute," said her little brother.

"I'm so glad," replied Mr. De Trop. "She wasn't at home the last time I called."

"Oh, yes she was, but wouldn't come down."

"How do you know she'll come down this time then?"

"'Cause I told her you was another fellow."—Philadelphia Record.

The Earliest Lens.

The earliest known lens is one made of rock crystal unearthed by Layard at Nineveh. This lens, the age of which is to be measured by thousands of years, now lies in the British museum with its surface as bright as when it left the maker's hands. By the side of it are very recent specimens of lens which have been ruined by exposure to London's fogs and smoke.

FIRE AT POTTER'S MILLS.

McCoy & Son's Large General Store and Edward Allison's Shed Destroyed by the Flames.

Potter's Mills, Centre county was the scene of a most disastrous fire Monday afternoon between 1 and 2 o'clock by which the large general store of McCoy & Son and the shed of Edward Allison were destroyed, The post office which was located in the store was also destroyed.

The origin of the fire was purely accidental. It started in the ware room at the rear of the store. Beneath this ware room was a dark basement and a lighted lamp was usually kept burning during business hours. Mr. J. Frank McCoy, who conducts the business, was engaged in moving a large 100 gallon oil tank, which contained at the time about forty gallons of oil, when in some manner the tank upset, and almost instantly, the store was flooded with oil, which at once became ignited from the lamp in the basement.

Mr. McCoy had a narrow escape from being burned to death. All escape by the lower floor was cut off by the raging flames. Fortunately there was a stair way near him by means of which he reached the second floor and from a window jumped to the ground below. His face, hands and eyebrows were severely scorched by the flames.

The fire burned with great rapidity and soon the store and post office with all contents and the 30x60 two story frame building were nothing but a mass of smouldering ashes.

The fire spread from the store building to the shed of Edward Allison, nearby, which was also destroyed.

A. McCoy & Son's loss is about $5,500 on which there is $4,000 insurance on stock and $500 on building. The only thing saved from the store was their ledger and day book.

The Sportsman's League of Potters Mills who had a lodge room above the store lost all their furniture.

Game Law Unconstitutional.

Judge W. W. Schuyler handed down and opinion at Easton Tuesday, declaring unconstitutional the game law of 1899, under which many men have been arrested, fined and imprisoned in Northampton and, presumably, every other county in the state. George Walter was arrested on complaint of Fish Warden Flynn for having fished with a dip net in the Bushkill creek. Alderman Brunner, before whom the defendant was arraigned, directed Walter to pay $100 fine and the costs of prosecution. An appeal was taken from the alderman's finding, with the result that the act under which the prosecution was brought was declared void.

The hearse was so badly damaged that the coffin was conveyed to the cemetery in a carriage.

DEEP SEA CURRENTS.

MYSTERIES OF THE OCEAN THAT HAVE PUZZLED THE SCIENTISTS.

A Theory as to the Origin and Cause of the Gulf and Other Streams—Are They the Product of Immense Submarine Geysers?

For more than a century scientists and philosophers have been vainly trying to discover the origin and cause of the mysterious current in the Atlantic ocean called the gulf stream. Why so called is not apparent, as nothing in the gulf of Mexico is in its composition. There have been many theories, which have been abandoned, some perfectly absurd, such as its being caused by the earth in its revolution on its axis, for if it had the power to draw this stream at the rate of five miles an hour from the coast of Florida it would draw all the water from the east coasts of North and South America at the same velocity. The prevailing theory is that the northeast trade winds drive a current into the Caribbean sea and, aided by the feeble equatorial stream, heap up the water in the gulf of Mexico, thence rushing around the south of Florida from the source of the gulf stream. But there is no such a heaping of the waters in that gulf. The waters there are sluggish, and there is no perceptible current leading toward the gulf stream or anywhere else.

This theory has been accepted for want of a better, but those who favor it are not entirely satisfied with it. The gulf stream is an independent body of water, having no connection with the water around or behind the point where it emerges. It is warmer and of a deeper blue than the surrounding seas and gushes forth from the startling point off Cape Sable at the rate of from five to six kuots an hour, with a temperature of about 90 degrees, lessening gradually as it proceeds on its journey of thousands of miles across the Atlantic ocean, warming the western shores of Europe.

Having seen the fallacy of the theories concerning the gulf stream, we will turn our attention to the great Pacific current, identical in all respects with its sister current of the Atlantic and concerning which there are no theories to contend with.

It starts spontaneously from a spot a few miles from the south end of the island of Formosa, in the Banshee channel, following the coast of Formosa northeasterly, past and through the Loochoo islands, skirting the coast of Japan; thence turns eastward on its long journey across the wide Pacific, warming the coast of America from Puget sound to Mexico. Its dark blue waters are in striking contrast to the surrounding seas, giving it the name of Murra Suar, or black water. It is an independent stream where no combination of winds or currents can possibly cause the mighty rush of warm blue water with a velocity of from five to six knots an hour from the start.

In its characteristics of heat, color and direction it resembles the gulf stream in every particular, and the origin of the two streams must be the same, whatever they may be, which I shall endeavor to show later on. There is another ocean current similar in all respects to the other two, with the exception that it runs in an exactly opposite direction. Starting from the vicinity of the south end of the island of Madagascar, it runs southwesterly around the Cape of Good Hope, where it disappears off Cape Lagullas. As a current, probably part of it is diverted into a steady set of the eastern current, caused by the prevailing westerly winds in that region. No scientists, so far as I am aware, have attempted to account for this current. Having now proved beyond refutation that all theories advanced as to the cause of ocean currents are groundless, it remains to be proved what the true cause is.

It must be admitted that the currents have a similar origin, as they are identical in every respect as regards color, heat and velocity, springing forth in the same manner spontaneously from the earth in some mysterious way. There is no place on the surface of the earth where the water can be heated to furnish the heat contained in these streams that gush forth from the depths of the sea; consequently the forces must be subterranean and can only be accounted for by large bodies of clear, blue water from the ocean forcing its way into the depths of the earth under its crust, where it burrows a channel of its own to the surface again, having received its warmth on the way by contact with the internal heat of the lower regions of the earth, forced on by continual pressure from behind.

That there are orifices in the earth's crust cannot be denied, also what becomes of the vast volume of water that cannot be computed which is constantly running at the rate of from four to six knots an hour from the Atlantic ocean, through the strait of Gibraltar into the Mediterranean sea. The numerous rivers, too, are continually flowing in, and yet the sea remains at the same level. Evaporation cannot account for it, for what is evaporated is formed into clouds and is precipitated again into the sea by the medium of storms and frequent rains.

The water must enter the earth from the ocean through these apertures on an incline as it gushes forth in these three mighty currents and cannot be discovered by soundings; consequently these three mighty currents are nothing more or less than immense geysers. —Captain B. F. Sherburne in Cleveland Marine Record.

HOURGLASSES.

They Have Not Gone Out of Style by a Long Shot.

"Most people think that hourglasses went out of style years ago," said a clerk in a Twenty-third street store, "along with perukes and knee breeches, but as a matter of fact we have more calls for them today than we have had at any time within the last ten years. That this renewed popularity of the hourglass augurs its universal acceptance as a timepiece by the coming generation I am not prepared to say, but if such a renaissance were to become assured it would be no more surprising than some of the other recent fads based on a revival of lost customs. Anyway a brief study of the hourglass will do nobody harm. There are thousands in this generation who have not the slightest idea what an hourglass looks like, and it won't hurt them to broaden their education a little along certain lines.

"Of the hourglasses sold at present the three minute glass is in the lead. This glass is used almost exclusively to measure time in boiling eggs, and its usefulness naturally places its sales a little in advance of the more sentimental varieties. Next come the five, ten and fifteen minute and full hour glasses, which are bought chiefly by musicians for piano practice and by lodges and secret societies.

"The sand used in an hourglass is the very finest that the world affords. The western coast of Italy furnishes most of it, as it has done for ages past. The cost of hourglasses is regulated by the ornamentation of the frames. A glass set in a plain rosewood case can be bought for $1, while a mahogany frame comes to $1.50 or $2. Of course, the price can be brought up still higher by fancy carving and decoration. Swell lodges sometimes go to this extra expense, but most people are satisfied with the cheaper grades."—New York Sun.

THE POULTRY YARD.

Gravel or coarse sand is as much needed as ordinary food.

All chickens want for health, growth and good conditions is plain, nutritious food.

Even when the fowls have an unlimited range it is a good plan to feed them every evening.

One of the first things to learn about poultry is that they must be kept clean and free from vermin.

Peafowls are handsome and subsist with the least care of any kind of fowls. They are prolific layers and a good protection against hawks.

Raw bone contains every part of an egg—white, yolk and shell. Therefore it should be kept constantly before laying hens in the granulated form.

One of the best ways of removing lice from fowls is to make them do it themselves by having a lot of dry earth where they can dust themselves whenever they feel like it.

The comb is always an index to the condition of the bird. When the comb is white or very pale or very black, something is wrong. A healthy fowl shows a bright scarlet color in the comb.

Slave to a Pillow.

There is in this city a young man who sleeps on a pillow that is one foot square and only four inches thick, a pillow that resembles a pancake. He has used it ever since he was a baby. When, at the age of twelve, he entered St. Paul's school, he took it all the way to New Hampshire with him, and when he entered Harvard he took it to Cambridge also. Starting on his wedding journey, he carried it in his suit case. When he went abroad, the pillow went along. And now, when he is twenty-five, he is more attached to the tiny thing than ever and will take it on the briefest trips—on trips of a day, say, to New York or on trips over night to the country houses of his friends. He says that he has not once slept on anything but this pillow since he was seven years old.—Philadelphia Record.

Sadness Explained.

In Liverpool recently a sentimental young lady was on the Cunard steamship quay when she saw a young girl sitting on a trunk in an attitude of utter dejection and despair.

"Poor thing!" thought the romantic lady. "She is probably alone and a stranger. Her pale cheeks and great, sad eyes tell of a broken heart and a yearning for sympathy." So she went over to the traveler to win her confidence.

"Crossed in love?" she asked sympathetically.

"No," replied the girl, with a sigh, "crossed in the Servia, and an awfully rough passage too."—Tit-Bits.

The Dead One.

An old colored woman was "taking on" the other day over the death of her baby as she was going from the church to the hack which was to take her to the cemetery. A white woman who knew her happened to be passing and said sympathetically:

"Which one of your children is dead, Aunt Eliza?"

"The one in the hearse," moaned the negress.—Atchison Globe.

Oxygen.

Oxygen forms one-fifth of the atmosphere, eight-ninths of the waters and, taking all together, one-half of all the materials of the globe, so far as they are known. As carbon is the basis of all the organic substances of the world, so oxygen, the supporter of life and combustion, represents its living energies.

It is easy enough to smile when you tread upon rose leaves, but try it when each step leaves blood prints upon the thorns. Some of the lines in your face may curve downward then.

CHEAP STATUETTES.

HOW THEY ARE MADE, HARDENED, FINISHED AND COLORED.

Italians From Tuscany Excel the World In Their Production—The Demand For These Casts That Comes From Our Schools.

While it is not difficult to secure good American workmen for carrying out schemes of interior decorations, it is impossible yet to get native born men capable of modeling statuettes and busts such as are sold on the street corners and in many of the art shops. All the workmen employed in factories that produce these are Italians, chiefly from Tuscany. This is equally true of those who follow this trade in Germany and France. The Tuscans appear to have a natural ability for that sort of work that has given them the monopoly of it.

The great majority of these busts and statuettes are copied directly from the originals wherever they happen to be, and then the molds are made from that copy and sent to all parts of the world, the statues being cast in the place where they are to be sold. In the larger shops in New York city, however, a certain amount of original work is done in order to keep pace with the popular demand for representations of the hero of the hour. A great many of our most distinguished poets, authors and statesmen whose busts are exposed for sale on the street corners never sat for these portraits. Some workman modeled the head after a photograph and occasionally has produced such good work that it is almost a pity the sculptor's name should remain unknown.

The chief purchasers of these casts from the larger makers are the high schools all over the country. They demand, of course, not only classical subjects and copies of ancient bas-reliefs and architectural details, but also busts of famous men and women from every period of the world's history. Such a wide range of subjects is covered by this demand that seven and eight thousand titles are included in some of the catalogues issued. The factories where these figures are turned out exhibit in their showrooms an assortment and confusion of time, place and nature bewildering to look at.

The process of casting these statuettes is a comparatively simple one when the mold is once completed. The material used, plaster of paris, is cheap, and a very excellent quality is produced in this country. When the statuette comes out, it is pure white and covered with ridges made by the different sections of the mold. These ridges are carefully removed, and then the cast is placed in an oven heated at about 180 degrees. After it has been baked for a certin length of time it is plunged into a solution of stearic acid and kept there until thoroughly saturated. Then, when it has dried, the yellow color is gained by applying to the surface a solution of beeswax, turpentine and coloring matter. This color will not wash off, and, of course, any shade can be produced at will.

"The demand for nude statues in the art schools is growing less every year," said one of the largest makers of these casts. "That is because people are realizing more and more that artists must draw from the human figure itself if they wish to understand the human form. We get more orders now for draped figures in the art schools and for busts in the high schools. Until very recently the busts of most of the celebrated Americans which we sell had been made in Italy from photographs sent over from this country, and many mistakes occurred in matters of detail, like the cut of the coats and collars. We are trying to do these now in a more modern and characteristic way and occasionally have been furnished with photographs by their families."

The statuettes which are carried about the streets wrapped in harmonious yellow tissue paper or are displayed on the sidewalks or on the steps of unoccupied houses are made by quite a different set of manufacturers. The larger dealers do not sell to these street peddlers at all. The peddlers have their own little workrooms, which furnish them with their stock at a much lower rate than the regular dealers charge. No originals are made in these ateliers, and most of the molds are gained by taking them from a cast bought from some other firm. The stearic acid bath is left out of the process, and consequently the color of these cheaper works washes off.

The peddlers of these statuettes stand in about the same relation to sculptors and sculpture that the hand organ players do to music and musicians. They reflect fairly accurately the popular taste, and, according to their testimony, it is the Tanagra figurines that in the long run sell the best of all their stock. From time to time there is a market for the bust of some particular man, and those sales are always temporary. Grotesque figures are always in demand and copies of the various models of Venus with which the public are familiar. Rows of Cupids and of monks' heads, winged Victories and busts of Wagner come and go as popular favorites, but the Tanagra figurines have a steady sale that insures their presence in the stock of nearly every street peddler.—New York Post.

THE REPUBLIC.

Thou, too, sail on, O ship of state!
Sail on, O Union, strong and great!
Humanity with all its fears,
With all the hopes of future years,
Is hanging breathless on thy fate!
We know what Master laid thy keel,
What workmen wrought thy ribs of steel,
Who made each mast and sail and rope,
What anvils rang, what hammers beat,
In what a forge and what a heat
Were shaped the anchors of thy hope!
Fear not each sudden sound and shock;
'Tis of the wave and not the rock;
'Tis but the flapping of the sail
And not a rent made by the gale!
In spite of rock and tempest's roar,
In spite of false lights on the shore,
Sail on nor fear to breast the sea!
Our hearts, our hopes, are all with thee;
Our hearts, our hopes, our prayers, our tears,
Our faith triumphant o'er our fears,
Are all with thee, are all with thee!

EXPRESSIVE PHRASES.

Those Which Foreigners Coming to America Learn to Use First.

What are the most expressive phrases in colloquial English? Of the dozens that slip off English speaking tongues in the course of a day some must be better suited for their purpose and more characteristic of the race that originated them than others. When foreigners come to this country, they catch certain expressions almost immediately and long before they can attempt to speak the language have made them part of their vocabulary. It would seem that these phrases must be the most expressive in English and that they are peculiar to the language and "fill a long felt want," since foreigners seize so eagerly upon them.

Every man or woman who lands in this country is saying, "Hurry up!" in two months. In whatever quarter of the city one may walk, Italian or German or Jewish, mothers will be dispatching their offspring on errands, using their native speech, but closing their orders with the magic "Hurry up!" How delightfully characteristic of the nation is the phrase! It is not to be wondered at that the newcomers from the slow moving old world find that they have brought over nothing to equal it.

"All right" rivals "hurry up," not because foreign tongues lack similar expressions, but because there is a jolly, hail fellow well met air about "All right" lacking in other phrases of the same character. Then, too, "All right" takes the place not only of "Good," but of "Yes" and "I understand" and of a dozen other phrases which in other languages require separate expressions.

The third phrase, which alone shares the popularity of the first two, is, "It's nice." This should be interesting to purists who wish to restrict "nice" to its first and original meaning of "exact." No word of ancestry sufficiently aristocratic to please them takes the place of "nice" in its colloquial meaning, and foreigners clasp it with joy, wholly ignorant of the fact that they are outraging the feelings of anybody by so doing. Other phrases besides "Hurry up," "All right" and "It's nice" captivate the fancy of the newly landed, but these three reign supreme.—New York Tribune.

They Were Not Indians.

It is said that when the first Chinese came to California the Indians were very curious about them. A dispute arose among some of them as to what country the strangers might hail from and whether or not they were Indians. The Indians, wise as the Puritans of old, decided to apply the water test. If the accused swam, they were witches; if they drowned, they were innocent.

One day a party of Indians met a party of Chinamen approaching a little stream. The strangers approached the bridge and started across. The Indians, too, filed across and, meeting the Chinamen in midstream, pushed two of them into the angry, spooming current below. The test was conclusive. They could not swim. They were not Indians.

How to Detect a Cheap Shoe.

"It takes a rainy spell to show up a cheap shoe," says a shoe dealer. "It can be spotted by an observer on a rainy day, though it may have come within an hour from the store. Watch the feet of people the next time it rains, and you can pick out the inexpensive shoes. A cheap shoe always slips when the pavements are wet. Artificial stone pavements especially show them up. The sole of a cheap, common shoe is made of imitation leather, composed of pressed paper, and water softens it and makes the wearer slide along while walking. You can always tell a cheap shoe in this way."—Indianapolis News.

The Greatest Surrender.

The greatest surrender in the annals of warfare was that of Metz on Oct. 27, 1870. As a fortified place Metz, with its surrounding forts, was practically impregnable, but bad generalship permitted it to be completely surrounded and cut off. The surrender included 3 field marshals, 66 generals, 6,000 officers of lower degree, over 400 guns, 100 mitrailleuses, nearly 60 standards and 173,000 rank and file.

Dr. Pierce's Medicines Do Cure

We must either believe that a large percentage of the population lie deliberately, and premeditatedly and without any motive other than a love of mendacity, or else we must believe in the many and remarkable cures effected by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and "Favorite Prescription."

For these cures are testified to by hundreds of thousands of men and women, scattered over every state in the Union. These are the men and women who are the backbone of the country. Their word is good with the merchants with whom they trade, with the neighbors and friends who are of the community in which they live. It is equally good when they tell the story of cures achieved by the use of Dr. Pierce's medicines.

Think of the matter in this light. Here are hundreds of thousands of credible witnesses who without conference or collusion testify independently to a common series of facts. Such testimony as this from only two or three persons would be adequate to determine a matter of life or death in any court of law in the land. What can be said when instead of two or three witnesses, hundreds of thousands testify that Dr. Pierce's medicines do cure the diseases for which they are prescribed and recommended? We come back to our starting point. We must either believe this multitude of witnesses or we must believe that men and women who are as we are morally and socially, will go out of their way to write a monstrous falsehood, damaging to themselves and perilous to the public which it is designed to deceive and delude. Such an opinion would be a disgrace to the lowest class of human intelligence.

Mysterious Disappearance.

The whereabouts of Charles F. Dietz, of Lock Haven, is as much of a mystery as ever, says the Democrat of that place. His relatives in this city and in Williamsport have continued making inquiries, but no tidings of the missing dentist have been heard. The only clue that may lead to his discovery is very slight.

It appears that a young man left Williamsport the night of the disappearance aboard the east bound Buffalo flyer and presented a pass from Lock Haven to Philadelphia. Dietz had such a pass, which he obtained upon his graduation from the dental department of the University of Pennsylvania. This discovery has been reported to the officials of the Pennsylvania Railroad company, but as yet the pass has not turned up at headquarters. It is believed that the young man, who may have been Dietz, left the train before Philadelphia was reached.

The idea that Dietz committed suicide is scouted by the people who were best acquainted with him. The day previous to his disappearance he ordered a new suit of clothes from a Williamsport tailor and paid a deposit when he was measured. He also arranged to attend the wedding of an uncle, which occurred a few days later.

Anti-Treating.

The action of the Catholic Total Abstinence Union at their national gathering in Hartford in condemning the silly and dangerous practise of "treating" cannot be too highly commended. As the resolution justly says, seven-eights of the drunkenness of the day is caused by an observance of this vicious custom.

While movements against treating have been started before yet they have never amounted to anything. Now that a powerful organization, backed by a great body of Christians, has seriously taken cognizance of the evil it is to be hoped that all members of the Catholic Church will act upon the suggestion. Really, treating is silly, superfluous. The custom of each man paying for his own drink prevails throughout Europe and the rest of the world, and it is only in America that, in order to show "good fellowship" a man must pay for liquor he neither wants himself nor do his associates.

The resolution urging co-operation with non-Catholic bodies in fighting for the cause of temperance is very timely, and all those who desire to further the good work will do well to avail themselves of the opportunity of united effort. Too much time has been wasted in the past in following out lines of sectarianism. Temperance is a universal ideal and knows no religious boundary lines. It is taught by the seven great religions of the world, only one of which is Christian.

We congratulate the Abstinence Union on its sound sense, and trust that the next convention shall show that the ideas promulgated in Hartford have been productive of good works.—Bridgeport Post.

Buried to Eyes by Tons of Earth.

JERSEY SHORE, Oct. 11.—Antonio Noncoli, an Italian employed in the Oak Grove works, was caught by a cave-in Tuesday and buried up to his eyes in dirt. His escape from death was a narrow one. Noncoli was working in a place which had been dug out by one of the big steam shovels, leaving a bank of earth 20 feet high towering above and projecting over the place where he was working. Suddenly the bank gave way and tons of earth and stones went tumbling down. Noncoli was caught by the mass and before it stopped he was covered up to his eyes.

Fifty or more employes were on the spot a minute after the accident occurred and all who could get near the man worked with a vigor to release him. It was 15 minutes before he was dug out. He was bruised about the body in several places but not seriously hurt.

DEMOCRATS HOLD MEETING

In Session for Several Hours in City of Philadelphia.

RESOLUTIONS UNANIMOUSLY ADOPTED

They Declare That the Democratic Organization in the City of Philadelphia, as at Present Constituted, is Not in Harmony with the Declarations in the Platform of the Recent Democratic State Convention.

PLAN RECOMMENDED BY PATTISON

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 11.—The committee appointed by the recent Democratic State convention to consult with ex Governor Robert E. Pattison, to hear and determine all disputes and objections to the composition of the present organization in the city of Philadelphia, and to remove any present representatives or officials in the organization and to substitute others in their places, met here yesterday.

William Hasson, of Venango county, is chairman of the committee, which was in session several hours, and, upon conclusion of the meeting resolutions which, it was announced, had been adopted, were made public.

The resolutions declare that the Democratic organization in the city of Philadelphia, as at present constituted, is not in harmony with the declarations in the platform of the recent Democratic State convention, nor with the rules of the party as amended by that convention, nor is it responsive to the will of the Democratic voters in said city, and that conditions now confront this committee which warrant the exercise of such power and authority as it may deem necessary to carry out the purposes of its appointment, set forth in the preamble and resolutions of said State convention.

Continuing, the resolutions say:

It is therefore

Resolved, First. That the proceedings had in the so-called Democratic city and county conventions of Philadelphia, held since the adjournment of said Democratic State convention, being inconsistent with the declaration of said convention and in disregard of the sentiments of the party throughout the state and not responsive to the will of the Democratic voters of the city of Philadelphia, and declared to be of no binding force upon the Democracy of the city and county of Philadelphia.

"Second. That in obedience to the instructions embodied in the resolutions appointing this committee, in pursuance of the authority conferred and the responsibility imposed, it is declared that the present Democratic city organization of Philadelphia, being out of harmony and in disrepute with the Democracy of both state and city, should be superseded by a new organization at the earliest time possible."

Continuing, the resolutions state that Hon. Robert E. Pattison had previously been requested by the committee to prepare a plan for the reorganization of the Democracy of Philadelphia, and, in pursuance thereof, Mr. Pattison had recommended a plan which embraces a city committee and a ward committee and rules for the conduct of the primary election, which includes division representation, to be held the second week of January, 1902.

This plan the committee approves, and it declares that the organization thus made "shall be the true and only regular organization in Philadelphia."

In conclusion, the resolutions say:

"That realizing the importance and far-reaching effects of this action, but being impelled thereto by a desire to 'perfect, purify and render the Democratic organization effective and responsive to the will of the Democratic voters in said city,' as well as to defend the honor and protect the interests of the Democracy throughout the Commonwealth, we regret that as a possible result of such action many true and patriotic citizens will be relieved temporarily from official party service, but the consolation of the committee is in the belief that all such will appreciate the necessity of prompt and effective measures and that they will alay themselves with the organizations as established, to promote the better political and municipal changes in the city, to advance the interest of true non-partisan reforms and to forever abate the scandals and infamies with which a corrupt and mercenary machine has besmirched the fair name of the great Commonwealth of Pennsylvania."

Judge Censured Both.

HOLLIDAYSBURG, Oct. 11.—Sheriff Calvin D. Beegle, of Blair county, while on the trail of a law violator Tuesday insisted on standing on the front platform of a Logan Valley trolley car, contrary to the company rules. In habeas corpus proceedings before Judge Bell the conductor claimed that the sheriff had no greater rights than a private citizen, and the sheriff maintained that he had lost his man through the conductor's perversity.

In discharging the prisoner Judge Bell censured both the sheriff for an improper arrest and the conductor for a too literal observance of the trolley company's rules.

MARRIAGE AND DIVORCE!

Episcopal House of Bishops Adopt an Important Canon.

THE VOTE WAS YEAS 37, NAYS 21

It Has Long Been Discussed by the Delegates to the Different Conventions of the Church and Now Goes to the House of Deputies.

NEXT MEETING TO BE IN BOSTON

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 10.—The action of greatest importance taken yesterday by the triennial Episcopal convention was the adoption by the house of bishops, by a vote of 37 to 21, of canon 30, which relates to the solemnization of marriage.

All of its provisions had previously been argued except those contained in section 4, which forbade the marriage of persons divorced for any cause not existing before marriage.

"For any cause not existing before marriage," is understood to refer to such causes as insanity, inability to execute a contract, the existence of a living wife or husband, or like reasons which practically render the marriage null and void. This section has been a bone of contention, a strong element in the church holding that the remarriage of the innocent party to a divorce, granted on the ground of infidelity, should not be forbidden. The bishops have refused to accept this view of the matter. The question is by no means settled, as the whole subject is now to come up in the house of deputies, where it is expected to cause a protracted debate.

The canon, as finally passed by the house of bishops reads:

"Canon 36 of the solemnization of matrimony:

"First. The solemnization of matrimony in this church, in which the mutual consent of each party entering into this state of life is given in the presence of a minister who, having pronounced in the name of the Holy Trinity to be man and wife, invokes the divine blessing upon their union.

"Second. The requirements of the laws of the state regarding the conditions for the civil contract of marriage shall in all cases be carefully observed before the marriage is solemnized.

"Third. No minister shall solemnize the marriage of any person who is a minor under the law of the place of marriage unless the parent or guardian of such minor is present and consenting, or shall have given written consent to the marriage or is permanently resident in a foreign country. No minister shall solemnize a marriage except in the presence of at least two witnesses, the minister or the witnesses being personally acquainted with the parties. Every minister shall without delay formally record in the proper register the name, age and residence of each party. Such record shall be signed by the minister who performs the ceremony and, if practicable, by the married parties and by at least two witnesses of the marriage.

"Fourth. No minister shall solemnize a marriage between any two persons unless, nor, until by inquiry, he shall have satisfied himself that neither person has been or is the husband, or the wife of any other person then living; unless the former marriage was annulled by a decree of some civil court of competent jurisdiction for cause existing before such former marriage."

The bishops have yet to consider canon 37, providing for the discipline of persons marrying after having been divorced. This also will cause lively discussion.

Another important feature of the work of the house of bishops yesterday was the appointment of a committee of five to act with similar committees of priests and laymen, constituting a joint committee of fifteen, to consider the proposed change in the name of the church. The committee has no power to act, but is to report its findings at the next general convention to be held in Boston in 1904.

Over-Work Weakens Your Kidneys.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

All the blood in your body passes through your kidneys once every three minutes.

The kidneys are your blood purifiers, they filter out the waste or impurities in the blood.

If they are sick or out of order, they fail to do their work.

Pains, aches and rheumatism come from excess of uric acid in the blood, due to neglected kidney trouble.

Kidney trouble causes quick or unsteady heart beats, and makes one feel as though they had heart trouble, because the heart is over-working in pumping thick, kidney-poisoned blood through veins and arteries.

It used to be considered that only urinary troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all constitutional diseases have their beginning in kidney trouble.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Young Colored Boy Arrested for Wrecking the Central R. R. Passenger Train.

Harry Miller, colored, the 18 year old son of Frank Miller, of this place, was arrested and placed in jail Monday by Detective Joseph Rightnour charged with a most heinous crime, that of wrecking the evening passenger train on the Central Railroad of Pennsylvania. The crime was committed on the night of the Reformed picnic at Hecla Park, in August. The train, which is due here at 9:15 in the evening, was thrown off the track just below the passenger station, and only through the fact that the train was running slow was a serious accident and probable loss of life prevented. As it was the engine and two cars were derailed. The accident was due to the fact that some miscreant had opened both the switches at this point.

This young scape-grace has been causing lots of trouble to the police this summer, this being the third time that he has been under arrest. First he stole a horse belonging to Origen Atwood. The horse was returned to the owner and the matter settled up. Next he broke into Irwin's book store and stole a tin box containing about $20.

He was tried for this crime at the August term of court and plead guilty. Sentence was suspended however by Judge Love as his parents represented him to be but 12 years old. To young to be sent to the reformatory. It has been learned that he is about 18 years old and if proven guilty of the present charge a term in the penitentiary probably awaits him.

He is now languishing in jail in default of $2.000 bail.

Possessor of an Old Violin.

Mr. John Noll, son of Emanuel Noll, is the proud possessor of one of the oldest violins known in the state. The stamp on this instrument is 1734 and it was brought to this country in 1792 by French refugees. It was given Mr. Noll when he was in the South during the civil war. It is an "Italian Guarnerius," which is supposed to be one of the finest violins made, and the same kind of an instrument that "Paganini" willed to the city of Genoa, and a Chicago man offered $30,000 for.

Rev. Rhoads has the instrument repairing it.
